The Daily Press.

HONGKONG, MARCH 6th, 1897.

The situation in Korea is evidently exciting some attention in England at the present moment. The peninsula kingdom still continues to be a source of uneasiness and anxiety. The Chinese suzerainty was replaced by Japanese tutelage, but still the people of Chosen were not happy, and now that Japanese tutelage has been superseded by what is virtually a Russian protection it may be doubted whether the Koreans are wholly satisfied. Bad as the rule of their own mandarins is, it is not, we fear, in the natives of the Hermit Kingdom to be grateful. The corruption and tyranny that the land has suffered from so long is slowly acquiesced in by the people. They are all ready to follow the same example, and simply regard the squeeze as customary and inevitable.
The present King was credited with amiability and great discretion when he first came to the Throne, and there is no doubt that he has had the greatest difficulties to contend with, making the task of governing the country justly almost impossible. He has, too, encountered nothing but misfortune since he assumed the kingly dignity. His father rendered life well nigh insupportable to His Majesty by his intrigues early in the reign, and his Queen was shamefully assaulted at the indignation either directly or indirectly of his own paternal relative, who is now in exile. One of his sons is living abroad; his nephew cannot return home; and upwards of thirty of his most influential subjects are in voluntary exile. It will be seen therefore that His Majesty of Korea does not rest on a bed of roses. He entertains certain progressive ideas personally, but has constantly been balked by his father and his Minister.
He appears to be perpetually menaced with the loss of his throne, but through many vicissitudes has been allowed to retain it, because any other government might be a change for the worse, and the jealousy of the Powers have so far saved the country from annexation. After having seen foreign troops of various nationalities in his capital, his Palace is now guarded by native soldiers who are trained under Russian officers. It is stated, however, that these troops are not yet sufficiently skilled to properly performthe functions of royal guards, and it may be doubted whether they would be a very efficient protection in case of an attempted revolution, which is almost always on the cards. Even the King himself, though comparatively enlightened, is still saturated with Oriental ideas, and is still saturated from the following note in a recent issue of the Korean Independent—“Memorials have been addressed to the King of Korea urging that everybody who had “any connection with the death of “the QUEEN, or with the military de“monstration at the Palace in 1894, in“cluding the families and relatives of the “officers, should be slaughtered. The “King has replied that the suggestions of “the memorialists are ‘quite reasonable.’ “What an impossible sort of monarch and “impracticable a people the King of Korea and his subjects must be may well be imagined from this! The ‘unspeakable Turk’ is not more hopelessly out of the scope of reform than the unimprovable Korean. It is inevitable that he must, like his prototype in Eastern Europe, fall under tutelage, and his ultimate fate may yet be the cause of disagreement. Up to the present moment
